2 Policy Statement

- 2.1 Stow Healthcare Group Ltd is a strong advocate of the role that families and friends have to play in the lives of our residents, and recognises the hugely positive impact that maintaining connections has, in supporting residents' health and mental wellbeing.
- 2.2 The COVID pandemic has seen our homes necessarily lockdown to all but essential visitors since the middle of March 2020. As the pandemic eases, we wish to welcome visitors to our homes in a way that minimises the potential transmission of the COVID-19 virus into our homes, potentially with devastating consequences for our residents and staff, but facilitates visits wherever these are possible.
- 2.3 In developing a visiting policy that supports residents seeing their loved ones, we are mindful of working in a way that adheres to government guidelines 'Update on policies for visiting arrangements in care homes' published 22 July 2020, takes note of recommendations set out by the Care Provider Alliance 'COVID-19 Visitors' Protocol' published 19 June 2020, and is mindful of the need for local direction from Directors of Public Health, considering the wider risk environment in the locality of each of our care homes.
- 2.4 Residents living in our homes have the right to freedom of movement and association, including to see their families. This policy seeks to balance the rights of the individual with the rights of others in our care homes (residents and staff) and the duties and responsibilities of Stow Healthcare Group Ltd as the care provider.
- 2.5 Welcoming visitors to our homes brings with it risks. These risks will be assessed by Stow Healthcare directors, home management and our staff. Stow Healthcare will ensure that its risk assessments are revised as necessary, taking into account the dynamic environment in which we are operating.
- 2.6 Our residents are frequently frail, and many are indeed extremely vulnerable. Visitors will be expected to clearly understand the processes that are set out, acknowledging that they will not have been used to such restrictions formally when visiting, in order to protect those in our care. Failure to adhere to the processes set out in a way that puts residents and staff in danger will not be accepted by the company.

3 Types of visit

- 3.1 Visits may occur in a number of ways. The government guidance is clear that even where in-person visits are permitted, alternatives should be sought, such as use of telephones or video.
- 3.2 Garden visits, where possible, where a garden can be accessed without a visitor going through a shared building, are preferable to visitors entering the care home itself.
- 3.3 Where garden visits are not feasible, for example due to a resident not being well enough to access the garden, government guidance suggests visits to a resident's window may be possible, or failing that, visitors should be taken directly to the resident's room upon arrival, and leave immediately after.
- 3.4 If garden visits become difficult to manage, for example, due to inclement weather, government guidance does suggest care providers may consider the use of designated visiting rooms, which are only used by one resident and their visitor at a time, and are subject to enhanced cleaning.

- 3.5 Stow Healthcare home managers will be best placed to consider the safest environment for any visit to take place, bearing in mind the ability of the resident to access a visiting area, the feasibility of cleaning the area to support safe visiting, and safe separation of the visitor from other residents and staff.

4 Principles for safe management of visits by family and friends

- 4.1 In order to make visiting as safe as possible, visits have to be managed in an appointment-based way. Visitors arriving for an unscheduled visit, will not be permitted entry. Stow Healthcare wishes to minimise risk by ensuring that visitors:
- 4.1.1 book an appointment in advance to visit under all, except end of life, circumstances
 - 4.1.2 understand that visits will be of a limited duration and whilst every effort may be made to facilitate a weekly visit, this will depend on availability of visitor slots in a given week, and fair allocation to all residents/families
 - 4.1.3 understand there should only be one visit occurring on site at any given time, in order that staff can support the visit (exceptions may be made where an end of life visit is also occurring)
 - 4.1.4 understand that visits should be limited to a single, constant visitor per resident, wherever possible, to limit the number of individuals coming into contact with the resident/care home
 - 4.1.5 are 'booked' onto site by staff and permit their details to be retained to support government test and trace guidance
 - 4.1.6 complete a declaration as to their state of health, and not attend the home if they are unwell
 - 4.1.7 follow all recommended processes to sanitise hands using facilities provided
 - 4.1.8 wear a face covering (visitors must provide their own) for the duration of the visit (and other PPE if directed by staff)
 - 4.1.9 minimise contact with staff during their visit (longer catch ups, care plan reviews etc can be facilitated by telephone or video conference before or after visits with staff)
 - 4.1.10 consider options to avoid use of public transport to go to the home
 - 4.1.11 ensure that they practise safe social distancing when on site, avoiding physical contact
 - 4.1.12 not bring items to site which cannot be cleaned by staff
 - 4.1.13 do not bring children or pets to site
 - 4.1.14 follow the guidance set out by Stow Healthcare to ensure risks of virus transmission are minimised
- 4.2 Stow Healthcare reserves the right to introduce other measures to prevent transmission of COVID-19 and will endeavour to communicate any notable measures to next of kin in a timely way.
- 4.3 It is expected that visitors should follow this policy and all reasonable requests made by Stow Healthcare staff in order to protect residents and staff. Failure to follow such requests, and the provisions set out in this policy may have adverse consequences, including residents who have been put at risk having to self isolate for 14 days.
- 4.4 Where there is any additional clarity sought, requests for further information may be made to the home's management, or company directors.

5 Supporting visits to residents lacking in capacity

- 5.1 Where a resident does not have capacity to make a decision about receiving a visitor, or doing so in full understanding of COVID-safe procedures, staff will consider, with other relevant parties, whether a visit is in the best interests of the resident from a mental and physical perspective, and if so, what additional support may be needed to ensure the visit is as safe as possible for all parties, for example, additional PPE, staff on hand to support and remind of safe visiting processes.
- 5.2 Staff should adhere to the principles of the Mental Capacity Act 2005 and the safeguards that protect our residents in making such decisions.

6 Visits by healthcare professionals

- 6.1 Visits by healthcare professionals are subject to risk assessment. In some cases, visits will be able to be conducted remotely. If so, this should be encouraged.
- 6.2 Access of healthcare professionals to the home should be logged for purposes of test and trace processes. Health declarations should be completed.
- 6.3 Location for healthcare professionals' visits will be decided on by the home manager, considering the type of visit. Where visits can take place outside, this should be encouraged, but it is acknowledged that it will not always be possible.
- 6.4 Healthcare professionals should adhere to the PPE requirements that would be expected of staff in our homes, considering the proximity in which they are to residents. Healthcare professionals would normally be expected to provide their own PPE; in cases where they do not have PPE, the home should provide it, to ensure the safety of staff and residents.

7 Access to volunteers

- 7.1 Stow Healthcare Group Ltd recognises the important role that volunteers have to play in our homes. Government guidance notes that where volunteers support homes, home managers will need to consider whether the support offered by a volunteer is aligned to that provided by staff, or by a regular visitor, and the appropriate oversight and infection-control procedures should be applied.
- 7.2 In the case that a volunteer's role is aligned to that of a staff member (i.e. they attend as a volunteer with set regularity and undertake specific duties), the volunteer should attend weekly testing in the home, should be trained in all infection prevention and control measures, including COVID specific processes and the donning and doffing of PPE.
- 7.3 In the case that the volunteer's support is more akin to that provided by a regular visitor, it would not be advised that they return to the home during the COVID pandemic, unless they can be supported to achieve the points set out in 7.2.

8 Responding to local outbreaks

8.1 The ability of Stow Healthcare to support safe visiting to its homes is dependent on the position of the home, and the safety of the locality at any given time. The home may have to close at little or no notice in the event that:

8.1.1 There is an outbreak, or possible outbreak in the home

8.1.2 There is evidence of community hotspots or outbreaks

8.2 In this case, the home will endeavour to contact families and update them as to the situation. Homes will also use alternative options to support residents to maintain contact with families.

9 Visits to a COVID positive resident

9.1 Government guidance suggests that visitors should not be permitted to see a COVID positive resident, except in exceptional circumstances, such as end of life visits. Where visits are undertaken, full PPE will be provided by the home, visits should last no longer than 15 minutes, and no physical contact should be made with the resident.

10 Visits by Residents outside of the care home

10.1 Visits at present outside of the care home are not advisable for residents. Exceptions may be made to attend urgent outpatients appointments, for example.

10.2 A 14 day isolation period will usually be required for residents who leave the home, unless attending an appointment where all social distancing measures are able to be adhered to, PPE has been worn by all parties etc.

10.3 Excursions will not currently be organised by the homes, and if residents are taken for walks, it should not be to places where they would encounter the general public without ability to social distance.
